

Best Your BAKING POWDERS CONTAIN AMMONIA.

NEW YORK'S
GREAT CHEMIST,
R. Ogden Doremus, M. D., LL. D.,

BELLEVUE HOSPITAL MEDICAL COLLEGE, May 24th, 1884.
C. PRICE, President of the Price Baking Powder Co., Chicago, Ill.:
This is to certify that I have analyzed "Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder." I find it composed of PURE MATERIALS, and compounded according to SCIENTIFIC PRINCIPLES. I have also analyzed the "Royal Baking Powder" and instituted a comparison between the two. The ingredients of "Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder" are PURER than those of the "Royal Baking Powder," when heated, yields sufficient AMMONIA to be detected by the sense of SMELL, and PLAINLY DISCOVERED IN IMPURITIES in the "Royal Baking Powder." The AMMONIA is derived from the chief aim of a Baking Powder is to produce a HARMLESS GAS, which gives porosity to the bread, biscuits or cakes made therefrom. "Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder" in this respect also surpasses the others examined biscuits from the two powders, and prefer those made from "Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder," for the following reasons:

The materials in "Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder" are purer than those of the "Royal Baking Powder," and therefore MORE ACCURATELY and SCIENTIFICALLY PROPORTIONED, hence bread or biscuits prepared with them are BETTER SUITED FOR DIGESTION.
The yield of carbonic acid gas is greater, therefore the BISCUITS ARE LIGHTER.

My opinion "Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder" IS SUPERIOR to the "Royal Baking Powder" IN EVERY RESPECT.
R. OGDEN DOREMUS, M. D., LL. D.,
of Chemistry and Toxicology in the "New York Bellevue Hospital Medical College" and Prof. Chemistry and Physics in the College of the City of New York

HOUSEKEEPERS' TEST:

Place a can of the "Royal" or "Andrews' Pearl" Baking Powder on a hot stove until heated, then remove the cover and smell. A faint but not required to detect the presence of AMMONIA.

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

Does not contain Ammonia, Lime, Alum or Potash. It is clean and pure.

A LONG FELT WANT.

And the Reasons Why It Was Filled.

Robert J. Burdette, having related his experience with a young and struggling daily, I move that other brethren present relate their own little history. I think I am sometimes a relief to unburden the soul by a confession.

I toyed with a daily once which was incorporated to fill a long felt want. I did not know it was loaded. There was a real daily that had been running two years and we entered the arena, hoping to win an easy victory over this paper and become a great power in the west. We made it our business to boom everything that was boomable and to sneer at the lack of enterprise of our adversary. We got specials by mail, press report by slow freight, and showed a style of fearless enterprise that was the envy and the admiration of many large metropolitan journals. We thought that our adversary wouldn't last more than a month after election, but Thanksgiving came and found the Evening Squawker still on deck. The editor would come and borrow print paper of us and then use it to call us the same bedecked, and putrid exponent of a still more fanciful political fact on. We would borrow a font of brevier of him and characterize his paper as the wailing foundry, dying in the poisonous vapors of the deadly swamp of political filth, wherein it had chosen its bed, edited by the bitter foe of the laundress and Lindley Murray, a man who had evaded justice for forty years, and not content with the outrage of all moral sense, had declared war on the spelling book.

Thus we kept up a spirited contest for a long time. Sometimes we could not get our paper out of the freight office, and sometimes he couldn't, but we would loan each other the last quire we had and keep friendly, while through the columns of our respective papers we spoke of each other in language which might have been construed as reproachful to some people.

It was an exciting time. One day the Squawker would offend a subscriber, and he would come over to us, and the next day we would unwittingly tread on the toes of one of our great army of subscribers, and he would go over to the enemy.

The editor of the other paper and myself saw that it was going to be a war of extermination. We ground our teeth and our sneers and salied in. At the end of the first year he had discharged his servant girl and my paper owed me $800 salary. At the end of the second year he had blown in his fine brick residence and I had taken my salary as police justice and thrown it into the raucous maw of my little hungry long felt want.

One day the little, muddy, messy, long suffering features of the Evening Squawker failed to appear. We kept asking the office boy why the Squawker didn't come. He didn't know. Finally he went to the publication office. The door was locked. A map of Dakota was hung over one window and a printer's towel over the other. The office boy raised the map and stole in. The uncertain light here and there broke in straggling rays through the threadbare places in the towel. On the desk lay a letter from the advertiser of a Colic Eraser, in which he offered to take a column in the Squawker a year, following pure reading matter and with 2,000 lines of reading notices to be strung along through editorials from day to day, in bold faced type, and in consideration thereof to furnish for two years to the editor or his order fifty bottles of the Colic Eraser at publisher's price, delivered on board the cars.

Everything about the office showed that the work had been going bravely on when the summons came. In fact the summons lay there on the desk among other papers, along with a writ of attachment for $253.85. This shows what a bold paper gets on its subscribers and also what a hold the subscriber gets on the paper. The sheriff had been a subscriber to the Squawker ever since it started, but we didn't know his attachment for the paper was so great.

We won the day, but at what a sacrifice. The smoke of conflict cleared away and showed that the victory was not worthy the carnage. We had survived, but we were not proud. The Squawker had fought bravely, and now its still, cold form lay in the basement of the chief creditor, and the usual notice of attachment was tacked on the door.

The editor and myself met on the following day, and he was the more cheerful of the two. He said he felt sorry for me. "I can use what I get hereafter on my family," said he; "but you can't. You will feel guilty if you buy a barrel of flour for your own use, knowing that it may imperil the next issue of the paper. I have passed all that." And he was right. The quicker a man decides to cease publishing a daily paper where it is not needed, just simply through a high moral sense of duty, the sooner he will become light-hearted and joyous. I paid $2,000 for the privilege of knowing this, and I present it to every paid up subscriber of the Free Press without money and without price. I don't know very much, but if there's anything I do know, and know it hard and know it with one hand tied behind me, it is that—Bill Nye.

WRESTLING Tournament.

Mr. JOHN BASTIAN,

Of this city, is making arrangements for a Grand

ENGLISH AND CORNISH Wrestling Tournament,

To be held at

WASHINGTON SQUARE,

On the 5th, 7th and 8th of July.

This Tournament is free for all Wrestlers in English and Cornish style, the entries being limited to forty-eight participants. The wrestling must be done in loose jackets, which will be furnished when necessary, catching the belt, or below the belt, being a foul. Three points constitute a fall, that is, two shoulders and one hip, or two pins and one shoulder, the falls to be decided by three judges appointed by the Proprietor, the records of the wrestling to be kept by a committee of four, the Tournament to be further subject to the usual rules governing English and Cornish Wrestling Matches, to be produced at the time of the exhibition.

The prizes amount in all to $410, to be divided as follows:

FIRST PRIZE, $150; SECOND, $100; THIRD, $75; FOURTH, $50; FIFTH, $25 and SIXTH, $10, the money to cover the same being now on deposit in one of the banks.

This is a new and novel entertainment for this place, and one which has never failed to bring liberal patronage and enthusiastic attendance, at other places where such tournaments have been held. Everything thus far promises for the tournament a grand success. It is expected that wrestlers will take part in the tournament, and patrons of this sport will be present from Idaho, Montana, Colorado, Nevada and California.

Everything possible will be done that may add to the convenience of the participants and the comfort of the spectators, and to prevent the occurrence of anything that might tend to affect the good order and propriety of the entertainment.

The list for entries will be open until the first day of the exhibition. m2
